DARNBROUGH GOES EAST

Famous Roulette Player Won Heavily From Western Wheels.

Will A. Darnbrough, the young gambler who has just gone through the west, at the heavy expense of roulette wheels along the route, has returned to New York and from there will go to England and the continent, to try his luck on the wheels of fortune. About two months ago Darnbrough was in Phoenix and made several good-sized winnings during his stay here. Then he went to Los Angeles and operated at various games on the coast, before trying the games in the northern mining camps. From Butte he went to Chicago and after playing there a while, went on to New York. Before coming to Phoenix Darnbrough visited the City of Mexico and there, as well as at other places in the republic, he cleaned up large sums of money. At Tucson and Nogales he won a few hundred dollars and then came on to this city. Here he cleaned up several good-sized winnings, and in a little visit to Tempe, one afternoon, won about $500, breaking a game at that place. Two or three of the gamekeepers here were aware of Darnbrough's dexterity at roulette and he was barred from some of the games. His winnings here fell far below his expectations and he lost a considerable amount at faro. He left, however, a few hundred dollars to the good.

With Darnbrough was H. W. Adams, a well known gambler in the east. The two worked together and their system is probably the only one that has ever been successful in beating the roulette wheel. Pat Shedy and hundreds of other experts have spent years in efforts to perfect plans to win from the wheel, but Darnbrough is probably the only man in the world who could break the notable bank at Monte Carlo, if he were allowed to play there. It has been stated by writers who were not familiar with roulette, that Darnbrough and Adams won by manipulation of the wheel, but such is not the case. The alleged scheme was for Darnbrough to play, and Adams to sit near by. According to the story, Adams' place was on a stool at the side of the wheel. He toyed with a light cane and nonchalantly watched the game as Darnbrough played and played heavily. Swinging the cane loosely, Adams would reach one end of it beneath the table and press against the bottom of the wheel, slowing it sufficiently to allow the ball to drop in some section covered by his partner. A pretty theory but impossible, inasmuch as there is no opening by which the bottom of the wheel could be touched by the cane.

Darnbrough's real scheme is this, and only long study has made it successful. His chips cover several places on the table, and Adams watches the wheel. So expert is the latter that he can judge by the speed of the ball and the wheel, about where the ball will drop and just before it does drop, he signals to Darnbrough, who puts a big stack of chips on the section signaled, as the ivory falls in a corresponding spot on the wheel. So accurate has Darnbrough become that he instantly interprets Adams' signals. The two rarely make mistakes and have been so universally successful that games in most of the larger cities, where gambling flourishes, have suffered.

Darnbrough is but 20 years of age and his story is very interesting. He was born in Normal, Ill., and his mother had intended him for a minister or a teacher. He was sent to the state normal university. Here he developed into a crack base ball pitcher, he and Clark Griffith, the famous Chicago twirler, both pitching for Normal. Griffith went into the National league and Darnbrough was offered several like places, but preferred to marry the daughter of H. T. Lewin, a prominent liquor dealer, at Bloomington. Lewin died and Darnbrough managed his business for several years. Then he sold out and went east. He perfected his roulette system, and since then, in four years, has won over $100,000. Most of his big winnings have been made in private gambling clubs in Paris, London, Buffalo and New York.

EARNING THEIR PAY.—While no doubt a great deal of money is being expended in legislative machinery which will not bring returns, the chief clerks of both houses and their assistants are earning their salary and losing sleep. They are kept on the jump all day, and between the bringing up of odds and ends of business and proof-reading, they seldom go to bed until midnight. They have little time to see anything of the gay life of the capital.

POSTAL BUSINESS.—A postoffice official said yesterday that business in the money order department had been unusually light for the past two or three months. For one day about the last of December, the money order business broke a record, but since then there has been a falling off. In the other part of the postoffice, however, there has been a substantial gain, an increase of fifteen per cent in business, more than enough to balance the shortage at the money order window.

MAJOR COLE'S MEETINGS.—Major Cole, the evangelist, has been speaking to large and attentive audiences in the Presbyterian church this week, and much interest is manifested. He is not a theologian or an orator, and his addresses are plain and simple, yet appeal to the hearts of his hearers, as no ordinary sermon could do. He speaks at 9:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. daily, and is assisted by all the Protestant pastors of the city. A large chorus choir, lead by Dr. J. C. Norton, adds much to the exercises. There will be the usual 11 o'clock services in all of the churches tomorrow, but a union meeting will be held in the Methodist church at half past seven, which will be addressed by Major Cole.

INDIAN SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—There was an immense crowd at the Indian school last night to witness the second production of the cantata, "The Jolly Farmers," by the pupils of the Indian school. Though it was fully understood that the public enjoys these entertainments by the Indian children, it was supposed that the large auditorium was ample to accommodate all who would attend, especially as a good audience was present at the first entertainment. But notwithstanding this fact, the house was filled to overflowing, and it is said quite a number returned to the city, unable to gain admittance. This is the only regrettable feature of the night. The programme was carried out creditably to all who participated and the applause indicated that the audience was well pleased.

UP-TO-DATE INDIANS.—A recent dispatch from Washington says some of the Arizona braves who have been in Washington looking after the irrigation bill and who waited for the inauguration exercises wandered into a downtown dry goods store on Friday morning to buy silks for waists for their squaws. It seemed but a step from tomahawks to civilized furbelows, and, not one bit abashed, they looked at and felt of the various pieces of silk, always red in color, until one old warrior who stood apart espied a piece of blue. When his comrades discovered the color they entered a vigorous protest against anything but red being bought, but, holding firm to his convictions, he had it measured and cut, saying: "She told me she wanted blue." From silk waists to garters was a slight change, and as they were of the made-up variety in gorgeous colors each sturdy brave unfashioned the showy buckles and tried them about his arm above the elbow, not looking at all confused as the shop girls smiled down behind the counters. Several of the Indians bought belt buckles built more for show than utility, first trying them on their shawls to get the effect, while others varied the shopping with red cotton handkerchiefs and even a stock and tie.
